PURPOSE/BACKGROUND:

Las Vegas, Nevada and Phoenix Arizona are the only two major metropolitan cities in the United States with a population of one million people or more that are currently not connected directly by an Interstate Highway. The goods movement between Nevada and Arizona has increased significantly in the past five years and will continue to increase in the future. The I-11 transportation facility should be considered as a multi-modal facility with possibility of rail and other transportation modes. The development of this Interstate will bring significant support and funding with the Interstate Highway designation.
